Think It Over!

You Owe It to Yourself to Look Around and Make Comparisons Before Buying Your Fall Clothing.

You have to wear the clothes—and you have to pay for them—and you owe it to yourself to investigate every clothier's claims, and give your business to the man who gives you the most clothing value for the least money. We frankly advise you to look around—visit the other stores—and thoroughly investigate qualities and values. We feel confident of our merchandise—so confident that we know after you make the investigation that we'll do business with you.

We know we have the best clothing in Washington. We know we have the largest stock—the greatest variety of styles and fabrics—and whether you buy our clothes at $11.75, or $37.50, or any price between, we know you'll get the best your money can buy—we know you'll save $3 to $5 over prices elsewhere.

Just as an illustration of clothing value that can't be matched in Washington, we ask your inspection of the FUNERAL OF MRS. SHAW.

Rev. Dr. MacLeod officiates at Services at F Street Residence.
Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock over the body of Mrs. Annie M. Shaw, wife of Alfred Shaw, of the Post-office Department, at the residence, 210 F street northwest. Rev. Dr. MacLeod, of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated.
Mrs. Shaw was a daughter of Joshua and Ann G. Emmert, of Hagerstown, Md. Two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Keyser and Mrs. Altha Meyer, of Chicago, Ill., and two brothers, J. V. Emmert, of Atlantic, Iowa, and Dr. D. F. Emmert, of Avoca, Iowa, survive her. She was married to Mr. Shaw on April 12, 1879. Death occurred last Thursday, due to heart disease. Interment was in Congressional Cemetery.

SACRAMENTO MAN MISSING.

Police Searching for Labor Commissioner Who Disappeared.
Police of Washington yesterday began a search for James R. Coleman, labor commissioner of Sacramento, Cal., who has been missing from that city for six months. A communication was received from John E. Sullivan, chief of police of Sacramento, describing Coleman and containing a photograph of the missing man. A search of hospitals in this city will be begun, and every effort made to locate the official.
Coleman was born in New York City thirty-nine years ago, and began life as a painter. He removed to Denver while a young man, and lived there several years. From Denver Coleman went to Sacramento, where he obtained a government position. He rose to the position of labor commissioner after he had been in the California city about six years. His accounts were straight when he disappeared, and his absence is surrounded by mystery.
Coleman is of stout build, about five feet one inch in height, wears a dark brown mustache of reddish tint, and has a medium complexion.

NEW WAGON PLEASURES.

Motor Delivery Trucks of Hart-Kraft Co. Operated in Capital.
The new model Hart-Kraft motor delivery wagon is meeting with much favor in Washington and is handled exclusively by the American Truck Company, of 1110 and 1112 C street northwest, which has just received the newest model wagon direct from the Hart-Kraft Motor Company, of York, Pa., and are showing this handsome wagon to those interested in this modern mode of delivery.
J. W. Meiberg, a prominent baker of this city, has used the Hart-Kraft motor wagon for four months since it first came out, and declares it is unexcelled for service.
It is easily demonstrated that one of these modern motor wagons will do the work of three ordinary wagons. Already some seven or eight of the Hart-Kraft motor wagons are now in operation in the city. Particular attention is called to the advertisement of the American Truck Company on the financial page of this issue of The Washington Herald, which shows an illustration of the new wagon.

CHILDREN IN GAMES

Lively Athletic Events on Rosedale Playgrounds.

WEBB SCHOOL WINS HONORS

Comes Out First in Contests with Total of Seventy-nine Points—Floral
Parade with Baby Carriages,
Bicycles, and Wagons the Feature of Day—Soldier Boys Second.

Twenty-five hundred school children, thoroughly fatigued after a day's sport at the Rosedale playgrounds, were tucked in their beds last night.
Yesterday was a memorable day for the school children of Northeast Washington, and especially for the Webb School, which came out winner of the athletic contest, held on the playgrounds at Seventeenth and E streets northwest, by thirty points. Baseball, volley ball, races, and other athletic events were the sports.

Baby carriages, bicycles, and boys' wagons, decorated with flags, red, white and blue streamers, autumn leaves, and flowers, were used in the "floral parade," a unique feature of the meet. Commissioner Macfarland, Judge De Lacy, and Mrs. Richard Fay Jackson were the judges who awarded the prizes to Miss Mary Brown. She had entered a baby carriage decorated with big yellow chrysanthemums, pink roses, and autumn leaves.

Won the Second Prize.

The second prize was awarded the "soldier boys," who hauled a battered stove-pipe cannon, mounted on a soap box, which rested on an express wagon, around the course. Louise Schultz won third prize with a baby carriage decorated with golden-rod and pink roses. The fourth and fifth prizes were won by William Lowry and John Bittner, respectively. Walter Frea, whose entry was a chariot, covered with American flags, in the midst of which a little baby girl lay chuckling, captured the sixth prize. The prizes awarded were a bright silver dollar to the child who got first place, and 50-cent pieces to the next five competitors.

Before the field games commenced 100 girls performed the national dance of Ireland. These same children received second place in the motor carnival last month. The dancers were dressed in green tunics and sunbonnets, and made a pretty picture as they went through the measures to the tune of "Wearing of the Green."

But the fun came when the indoor baseball team of the Webb School went up against the team from the Hayes and downed them, 17 to 6. Lizzie Anderson, who did the twirling for the winners, pitched a star game and allowed only twenty-three hits.

The results of the athletic contests were as follows:

Fifty-yard dash for girls under ten years—First, Louise Moore, Webb; second, Mary Borer, Wheatley; third, Jessie Rogers, Wheatley; fourth, Nina Chaffin, Blair School.
Fifty-yard dash for girls under thirteen—First, Pearl Herbert, Pierce; second, Jeannette Flagg, Webb; third, Mary Davis, Blair School.
Fifty-yard dash for girls under sixteen—First, Anna Hastings, Blair; second, Stella Engstrom, Ludlow; third, Lola Bland, Hayes.
In the potato race the winners were Annie Handley, Wheatley; Mildred Reeves, Madison; Annie Hastings, Blair; Zolma Tyne, Pierce, and Madeleine Cornish, Blair.

Sack Race Winners.

The sack races were won by Margaret Price, Webb; Louise M. Moore, Wheatley; Beatrice Ridgely, Blair, and Gladys Levy, Pierce.

The results of the contests among the boys were: Throwing baseball—J. Bailey, Peabody.
Sixty-yard dash—First, C. Drexler, Pierce; second, O. Harding, Blair; third, W. Madison, Pierce.
100-yard dash—First, R. Blachford, Webb; second, T. White, Madison; third, L. Dix, Webb.
The high jump was won by T. White, 4 feet 6 inches; R. Blachford was second, 4 feet 4 inches; Peabody, captured third place.

The standing of the schools at the close of the contest was: Webb, 79; Wheatley, 49; Blair, 35; Pierce, 27; Madison, 26; Blair, 25; Hayes, 24; Ludlow, 14; Peabody, 6; Taylor, 5; Bessing, 1.

LECTURES ON CONCRETE.

Y. M. C. A. Men Hear Engineer of Franklin Institute.

"Modern concrete construction" was the subject of a lecture by E. P. Cowell, concrete engineer, Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

"It is a common idea that concrete construction is a twentieth century enterprise," said the lecturer, "but a glance at history will show it to be as old as Babylon itself, and there are fragments of concrete building existing to-day that were built more than 4,000 years ago."

"The conditions existing in Washington are very favorable for concrete construction," continued the speaker. "The sand and gravel beds of the Potomac, together with the climate which makes it possible to work about ten months out of the year in concrete structure, are points advantageous to the industry."

Mr. Cowell stated that concrete manufacture would soon become a large industry of the South. In the last few years the annual output of cement has increased from 15,000,000 barrels to more than 50,000,000 barrels.

Mr. Cowell showed a number of views of concrete building throughout the United States, and a few of the more of buildings that had been erected in this city.

SHOE ONLY CLEW.

Police Seek Men Who Stole Automobile of Henry Xander.

With the aid of a shoe as a single clew, detectives are tracing three men who stole an automobile from Henry Xander, director of the Saengerbund, and nearly wrecked it at the south end of the Highway bridge yesterday morning.

George Elsemann, a nephew of Xander, left the machine before the Xander home at 908 Seventh street northwest on Friday night. When Elsemann looked for the machine a few minutes later he found it had been driven away.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning a touring car containing three men, apparently drunk, sped across the Highway bridge. It was found a few hours later at the bottom of a twenty-foot embankment at the end of the bridge. The machine was badly damaged. A No. 3 shoe was found in the bottom of the automobile. Detectives believe the shoe was worn by one of the men who occupied the car and are searching for him.

Commissioners Meet Wednesday.
The first official meeting of the District Commissioners under the new system will be held at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Under the plan, this meeting is to be called regularly at this hour, regardless of what business may be up for consideration. It does not, however, do away with sessions on other days of the week.
